

I can scarcely believe what I read in the Kansas City Star this morning
about the plans of Sinclair
Broadcasting to air
an inflammatory
documentary about
John Kerry shortly
before the election.
Frankly, my feelings
would be very similar if the subject of the piece
were George Bush.

The thought that
this company
believes it can manipulate the public airwaves to influence a close election is appalling. I have further communicated
my feelings to KSMO,
the local Sinclair
affiliate.

This and other
Sinclair affiliates
are licensed to serve the public interest. To allow the precedent of this type of action
is to compromise the essential fairness
of the American
election process.
Please take a stand
now that says no
corporate media
entity can use its power to bypass
federal election
rules.
